This tour offers you a fabulous chance to see some of the major tourist attractions of Mexico in the company of an all gay group. Apart from the great sightseeing, in each city you will be staying near the gay areas and these are some of the most out places anywhere in the world. Welcome and farewell parties are just part of the tour and the group itself offers companionship, fun and new friendships. Included in the tour is a visit to the amazing Teotihuacan pyramids near Mexico City, an afternoon of punting around the floating gardens serenaded by mariachi bands, a day trip on the infamous Tequila Express with onboard entertainment, drinks and party. The last five days are spent at the gay capital of North America, Puerto Vallarta, giving you the opportunity to really relax and enjoy this wonderful place. And more! Irregular Tours is a gay owned and operated international group tour company with many years of experience. We take particular care of our guests, and our tours are as inclusive as possible so that there is very little extra for you to pay.

Destination Information

Mexico City, the magnificent and gigantic capital, is a kaleidoscope of eras and mementos, of new experiences and splendours from past centuries. Drift through the magnificent floating gardens of Xochimilco in a colorful 'trajinera,' a flat-bottomed boat accompanied by mariachi bands whilst enjoying a few beverages. Another highlight is a day trip to the ruins of Teotihuacan pyramids archaeological site, which are among the most remarkable in Mexico.

The "Pink Zone" is a neighborhood filled with shops, restaurants, tourist hotels and is the center of the gay and lesbian community in Mexico City. The heart of the gay action is a short stretch of Calle Amberes which is non-stop gay, with bar after bar packed into the block south of Paseo de la Reforma.

Guanajuato, the capital of Guanajuato state, is a UNESCO World Heritage Site and a charming colonial-era city situated in a picturesque valley surrounded by the Sierra de Guanajuato mountains. Founded in 1559, Guanajuato is a former silver mining city and home to the La Valenciana mine. Silver was first discovered in Guanajuato in the mid-1600s. La Valenciana was opened a century later and quickly became one of the richest and most productive silver mines in the world. The historic center of Guanajuato has a distinct European flavor with hundreds of narrow cobblestone callejones (alleyways) running up and down the hillside. Shady plazas are dotted with sidewalk cafés, museums, theatres, markets and historic monuments. An underground network of tunnels runs beneath the city helping to control the flow of traffic. Guanajuato has an active gay scene with many bars and clubs.

Guardalajara, the second largest city in Mexico, it has retained much of its European influence. With numerous museums, galleries and other cultural attractions, it has a very active gay scene and more gay bars and clubs than Mexico City. As you stroll along you'll pass picturesque arcades and promenades, bubbling fountains, charming restored colonial buildings and modern sculptures. Nearby, the Plaza de los Mariachis offers a space to have a drink and listen to the mariachis play, a fitting end to a full day of sightseeing in Mexico's second city. The nightlife is definitely something to brag about. Gay bars, cafes, antros (clubs) and full blown nightclubs keep the music pumping into the break of dawn. A feature of the say in Guajalajara is the day trip on the Tequila Express which is an all day party to the Tequila region.

Puerto Vallarta, known as the gay capital of North America offers a unique mix of local color, world-class dining, modern beach resorts and easy access to "old Mexico" nearby. Whether you take just a day to stroll the streets of Old Town or spend a week enjoying its many attractions, you'll fall in love with this magical place.

The established gay beach is known as "Blue Chairs" because of, well... the blue chairs on the beach. Locals and tourists come together on this section of Playa los Muertos in front of the gay-owned Blue Chairs Hotel. Puerto Vallarta is second only to Mexico City in the number of upscale dining establishments.
